

ABSTRACT

Various methods of forming backside connections on a wafer stack are disclosed. To form the backside connections, vias are formed in a first wafer that is to be bonded with a second wafer. The vias used for the backside connections are formed on a side of the first wafer along with an interconnect structure, and the backside connections are formed on an opposing side of the first wafer using these vias.